

CITY-STATES AND DYNASTIES 1450-1550

Europe sees greater centralized monarchical control over taxes, law, armies; increased sense of nationhood

- Italy
 - Italian city-states: Hundreds of cities (Florence, Venice, Milan, Genoa, Naples, Papal States) are ruled independently along with surrounding countryside, resulting in political and social instability
 - Cities slowly consolidate into larger city-states ruled by powerful, ruthless families, such as the Medici of Florence
 - Many city-states become constitutional oligarchies ruled by small numbers of people; others ruled by despots
 - Papal States are ruled by the pope, like other city-states
 - France invades Italian states three times – 1494, 1499, 1515
 - 1527: Hapsburg Spanish/Protestant German and Swiss mercenaries sack Rome, end of Italian Renaissance
- Spain
 - Reaches height of power during 1500s via marriage, inheritance, luck, exploration
 - 1469: Marriage of Ferdinand of Aragon and Isabella of Castile leads to united Spain
 - 1492: Columbus' expedition; Reconquista complete, expulsion of Jews
 - 1502: remaining Muslims exiled
 - Charles V (r. 1519-1556) rules Hapsburg Empire (Spain, Netherlands, southern Italy, central Europe), Holy Roman Empire, and Spanish New World empire (Caribbean, Mexico, Peru)
 - After Charles, Hapsburg Empire splits between Spanish and Austrian branches
- Holy Roman Empire
 - Continues divide into independent states ruled by princes, archbishops
 - Population mostly German
 - Empire as a whole ruled by an elected emperor (usually an Austrian Hapsburg) who negotiates powers with princes
- France
 - Centralizes under powerful Valois dynasty but faces constant warfare, religious conflict
 - 1453: France defeats England ending the Hundred Years' War
 - 1477: Burgundy divided between France and Holy Roman Empire
 - 1500s: Hapsburg-Valois Wars end in French defeat
 - 1515-1547: Francis I rules with cooperation of nobles
- England
 - New Tudor dynasty ends decades of civil war
 - 1455-1485: War of the Roses between House of Lancaster and House of York over crown
 - 1485: Lancastrian Henry Tudor defeats ill-reputed Richard III at Bosworth Field; as Henry VII he strengthens royal authority
- Byzantine Empire
 - 1453: Constantinople falls to Ottoman Turks
 - Islamic, religiously tolerant Ottoman Empire spreads into the Balkans
- Russia
 - 1480: princes, united under Ivan III of Moscow, end Mongol rule of Russian cities

RENAISSANCE THOUGHT AND CULTURE

- Italian Renaissance
 - Exploration of the secular world (nature and humanity) through painting, poetry, sculpture, and philosophy
 - Humanism – poets Dante Alighieri (1265-1321) and Petrarch (1304-1374) and other thinkers pursue scholarship in the humanities, inspired by ancient Greeks and Romans
 - Wealthy nobles and merchants support the arts
 - Techniques of symmetry, proportionality, chiaroscuro (light-dark contrast), and linear perspective make art more realistic
 - 1440: Donatello finishes sculpture of David, first Western free-standing nude since antiquity
 - 1507: Leonardo da Vinci (1452-1519), artist, engineer, scientist, inventor, ultimate “Renaissance Man” finishes Mona Lisa
 - 1508: Michelangelo Buonarroti begins work on the ceiling of the Sistine Chapel in Rome; beautiful frescoes depict biblical passages
 - 1513: Niccolo Machiavelli’s The Prince: Leaders should inspire fear to end political instability, cause moral regeneration
 - ~1520-1600: Mannerism: New expressive style rejects symmetry of earlier Renaissance art
- Northern Renaissance
 - Begins c.1460s; humanists pursue intellectual activity, making religious reform possible
 - Spurred by invention of movable-type printing press (Johann Gutenberg, c. 1450) and rising number of schools and universities
 - Literacy leads to challenges to rule, religion; greater individual knowledge; propaganda; censorship; new trades; copyright law
 - c.1469-1536, Netherlands: Desiderius Erasmus promotes intellectual inquiry, piety, use of Latin as common scholarly language
 - 1471-1528, Germany: Albrecht Durer paints, engraves realistically
 - 1516, England: Thomas More critiques society in Utopia

THE AGE OF EXPLORATION

- Spanish and Portuguese explore coast of Africa and the Atlantic in the late 1400s-1500s.
 - 1492: Spanish monarchs fund Christopher Columbus’ voyage; aims to find spices and gold in Asia, but actually lands in Caribbean
 - 1498: Portuguese explorer Vasco da Gama reaches India by going Africa; spice trade to the east by sea begins
- Spain claims most of Central and South America; Portugal claims Brazil, African coast; conquer via small armies with advanced weapons
 - 1493: Pope divides New World between Spain and Portugal in Treaty of Tordesillas
 - 1521: Hernan Cortes conquers Aztec in Mexico for Spain
 - 1531-1534: Francisco Pizarro conquers Inca in Peru for Spain
- 1519-1522: Ferdinand Magellan circumnavigates world for Portugal
- Indigenous people face diseases, enslavement, and loss of land and culture
- Africans sent to New World as slaves in mines and on plantations
- Catholic priests, notably Bartolome de Las Casas (1474-1566), protest against Spanish treatment of Nation Americans

THE REFORMATIONS 1500-1600

- Calls for Church reform to end abuse and give lay authorities more power set the stage for Reformations
- Sale of indulgences comes under attack
- Corrupt, immoral popes, bishops, and priests tarnish Church image
- 1378-1417: Great Schism
 - Period of several rival popes; undermines papal authority
 - Calls for reform by John Wycliffe (English, c. 1328-1384) and Jan Hus (Czech, c. 1369-1415)
 - German cities, desiring more wealth and power, try to end Church's financial privileges and abuses
- Protestant Reformation
 - German priest Martin Luther challenges Church doctrine, rejects pope as head of Christian church
 - Argues against monastic life; believes that faith alone leads to salvation, not good works or indulgences
 - Acknowledges only two sacraments rather than seven
 - Promotes personal religion, individual Bible study, Bible and Mass in vernacular rather than Latin
 - 1517: Luther posts ninety-five theses on door of church of Wittenberg
 - 1521: Pope excommunicates Luther; Holy Roman Emperor Charles V signs Edicts of Worms condemning Luther's ideas; Church reform becomes a political issue that divides German princes
 - 1522: Ulrich Zwingli leads Reformation in Switzerland based on literal reading of scripture
 - 1530: Augsburg Confession makes Luther's break with Church permanent, founds Lutheran Church
 - Protestant movement spreads piecemeal through Holy Roman Empire's individual states and cities
 - Urban reformers, pamphlets, preachers spread Luther's ideas
 - Crowds attack churches; wars distract Charles V from resisting Reformation actively
 - Radical reformers in the Holy Roman Empire splinter into Anabaptists, Mennonites, Anti-Trinitarians
 - 1530s: England's Henry VIII (r. 1509-1547) founds Anglican Church in order to divorce his wife, breaks from Catholicism
 - 1540s: John Calvin (French, 1509-1564) leads moral reform in Geneva, Switzerland which is a haven for persecuted Protestants
 - believes salvation comes only through predestination but also that living a strictly godly life is a sign of being chosen to be saved
 - Calvinism spreads to the Netherlands, France, and Scotland
 - 1553: Mary I (r. 1553-1558) returns England to Catholicism
 - 1555: Peace of Augsburg lets German princes decide on religion of their states; Holy Roman Empire thus divides between Lutherans and Catholics; Calvinists and Anabaptists are not recognized
 - 1559: Elizabeth I (r. 1558-1603) enforces Protestantism through Acts of Uniformity and Supremacy but tolerates Catholicism; seeks pragmatic solution to end violence; Puritans press for further reform of Anglican Church by advocating for simplified, fervent Protestantism
- Catholic Reformation
 - Defends against Protestantism, makes reforms within Catholicism
 - 1540: Ignatius of Loyola founds Society of Jesus; Jesuits preach and teach worldwide to promote Catholicism
 - 1545-1563: Council of Trent reforms bishop and priest conduct; reaffirms Catholic doctrine: papal authority, seven sacraments, Christ's presence in Eucharist (communion), power of indulgences (but not sale), power of good works, celibacy of clergy
 - 1555: Pope Paul IV orders Jews to live in ghettos
 - 1559: Pope Paul IV establishes Index of Forbidden Books

- 1600: Pattern of Christianity in Europe set, but minorities exist
 - Catholic majority: Ireland, Spain, France, Italian states, Austria, Poland, southern German states
 - Protestant majority: England, Switzerland, Netherlands, Scandinavia, northern German states
 - Orthodox majority: Russia, Balkans, parts of Poland-Lithuania
 - Islam: Balkans and Turkey

FAMILIES AND CHILDREN 1450-1600

- European population in the 1400s still recovering from Black Death (bubonic plague) of the 1300s
 - Life expectancy short; 40 considered old age
 - Couples marry late
 - High infant mortality; poor have few surviving children
 - Wives legally subservient to husbands but contribute to household economy
- Changes in marriage and families in the 1500s
 - Marriages occur at later ages; women considered partners in marriage; divorce still difficult but more acceptable under Protestantism
 - Some use of birth control; high infant mortality continues; many children placed in foundling homes; spreading practice of wet-nursing
- Until late 1600s, plague sweeps through Europe every 10-15 years (with severe but less disastrous effect than in the 1300s), spread by armies.

ECONOMIES 1450-1600

- 1300s-1400s: Europe more united economically than ever before
 - Italian cities: Genoa and Venice trade European wool and metal for silk, cotton, and spices from China, India, and Persia
 - Textile production and surplus agriculture provide goods for urban centers, fueling the Italian Renaissance
 - Banking, borrowing, raising capital through mining monopolies fuels expanding economies
 - Italian city of Florence's gold florin becomes the standard currency for many European traders
- 1500s: Population and wealth of Europe increase, benefiting wealthy landowners but leading to inflation, less food, fewer jobs, higher taxes, wider gap between rich and poor
- Age of Exploration leads to new maritime spice, silk, and slave trade; sea powers Spain and Portugal grow rich importing silver and gold from the New World; Italian states decline from competition and Hapsburg-Valois War fought in Italy.
- New wealth allows western Europe to buy grain from eastern Europe; land values in Poland rise, rents increase, leading small holders to reenter serfdom (losing freedom, gaining security.)
- 1524-1525: Peasants' War in Holy Roman Empire calls for end to serfdom, unfair taxation; based partly on Luther's Reformation teachings but was condemned by Luther; revolt is suppressed
- Townspeople in western Europe gain freedoms from lords; generally could not be serfs
- Largest European cities in 1500: Constantinople, Naples, Milan, Paris, Venice
- Only about 15% of population lives in towns
- Small number of merchants, nobles, and manufacturers dominate urban society; next are artisans, most in cities are laborers
- Guilds regulate artisan training, production, goods distribution

WARS OF RELIGION 1560-1650

- France: Dynastic conflict intensifies wars of religion between Huguenots (French Calvinist Protestants) and Catholics (1562-1598)
 - Three successive weak kings and their mother, Catherine de Medici, try to maintain their independence between Catholic and Protestant competing factions.
 - 1572: In St. Bartholomew's day Massacre, thousands of Huguenots killed in Paris and throughout France; Protestants increase resistance to Catholic rule
 - 1598: Bourbon king Henry IV declares Edict of Nantes, a religious truce; official religion is Catholicism, but Protestants are granted freedoms.
- Netherlands: Dutch Calvinist Protestants begin revolt against Catholic Spanish Hapsburgs (1572)
 - 1581: Calvinist United Provinces (northern Netherlands) declare independence; southern Netherlands remains Catholic, loyal to Spain (Belgium and Luxembourg today)
 - 1609: Truce declared
- Thirty Years' War (1618-1648): Most destructive war of religion
 - Despite Peace of Augsburg, tensions rise in the Holy Roman Empire between Catholics and Protestants, Calvinists and Lutherans
 - 1618: War begins in Bohemia (Czech region of Holy Roman Empire); dynastic conflicts draw in nearly all European countries (Denmark, Sweden, France, Spain, Netherlands)
 - Armies grow large, cruel, undisciplined, live off the land; destructive war becomes the norm
- 1648: Treaty of Westphalia brings lasting peace, ends wars of religion, establishes many of today's European borders
 - Calvinists gain legal recognition; German rulers still allowed to determine religion of their own territories
 - Independence of Swiss Confederation and United Provinces (Netherlands) recognized
 - Holy Roman Empire weakened; German states greatly damaged by war but maintain relative independence within Empire; German states Austria and Brandenburg-Prussia gain power
 - France and Spain continue at war until 1659
 - In 1650, 20% of Europeans are Protestant (decline from 1600).

SCIENTIFIC IDEAS 1500-1700

- "Scientific Revolution" actually slow, uneven development in thought and approaches to the study of the universe, often following false leads or experiencing setbacks
- Astronomy: Mathematical formulas developed to describe earthly and planetary motion; observation places the Sun rather Earth at the center of the planets
 - Ancient, medieval science (based on Greeks Aristotle and Ptolemy) place Earth at the center of the universe
 - 1543: Nicolaus Copernicus (Polish, 1473-1543) publishes argument for heliocentric universe, based on his own observations
 - Tycho Brahe (Danish, 1546-1601) collects observations of planets and stars; his assistant, Johannes Kepler (German, 1571-1630), develops laws of planetary motion
 - Galileo Galilei (Italian, 1564-1642) uses telescope to observe sun's rotation, moon's craters; argues that universe follows laws of mathematics
- Math and Physics: discoveries of gravity, mathematical laws
 - Isaac Newton (English, 1642-1727) argues that light can be described mathematically (1671), publishes laws of gravity (1687)
 - Newton and Gottfried Leibnitz (German, 1646-1716) independently develop calculus, which describes motion, surface area, and change in volume via mathematical formulas

- Anatomy: Andreas Vesalius (Flemish, 1514-1564) and William Harvey (English, 1578-1657) explore workings of the human body, including the skeletal and circulatory systems
- Some scientists come into conflict with the Catholic Church for disagreeing with the Bible and emphasizing material world rather than the spiritual world
 - 1633: Pope prosecutes Galileo for promoting Copernican system
 - However, most scientists view their work as glorifying and understanding God's creation, not as a challenge to religion
 - Blaise Pascal (French, 1623-1662) attempts to reconcile science with religion
- Scientific reasoning: scientists and philosophers begin to view the universe as governed by universal laws that can be discovered and tested using rational inquiry and experiment.
 - Francis Bacon (English, 1561-1626) uses inductive reasoning (gathering small pieces of information via experiments and drawing larger conclusions from them)
 - Rene Descartes (French, 1596-1650) uses deductive reasoning (beginning with the general principles such as "I think, therefore I am," and using reason to derive knowledge from them)
 - Newton combines experimentation with theory
- Scientific knowledge spreads through letters, publications, private and public demonstrations; Royal Society of London becomes the most prominent scientific society
- Women prevented from participating in scientific societies and universities, yet some make scientific contributions, such as English noblewoman Margaret Cavendish (1623-1673)

EARLY MODERN THOUGHT AND CULTURE

- Reformation leads to fewer monasteries, fewer religious holidays; encourages spread of humanist education and reading, including literacy for women
- Baroque style of art and architecture embraced in Catholic countries; heavily ornamented, monumental, emotional religious art
- Baroque music flourishes c. 1600-1750, distinguished by bass continuo (sustained note) and ornamentation heard in compositions of Johann Sebastian Bach (German, 1685-1750) and Antonio Vivaldi (Italian, 1678-1741)
- 1600s: Dutch artists paint secular scenes of daily life; still life; families eating, drinking, enjoying wealth; emerging middle class can afford to buy and commission paintings
 - Rembrandt von Rijn (Dutch, 1606-1669) paints townspeople in rich color, shadow
- Mid-1700s: Rococo style features flowing curves like Baroque, but smaller-scale, less ornate
 - Jean-Antoine Watteau (French, 1684-1721) paints elegant, smaller, secular themes
- Literature: Plays and novel examine human nature and morality in changing society
 - 1605: Miguel de Cervantes (Spanish, 1547-1616) publishes first part of Don Quixote, a sympathetic satire of chivalry
 - William Shakespeare (English, 1564-1616) dramatizes human nature, English history in plays including Hamlet and Macbeth
 - 1667: English Puritan John Milton's Paradise Lost explores the sin of pride
- 1651: English philosopher Thomas Hobbes' Leviathan sees humanity as naturally materialistic and selfish, argues that absolutism is necessary to prevent conflict
- 1690: English philosopher John Locke's Two Treatises of Government argue that humanity is naturally peaceful, call for moderate rule, rights, liberty, and protection of property

- Continued superstition despite new philosophies and scientific ideas, most Europeans of the period believe in demons, thousands are accused of witchcraft and are sentenced to death from 1400-1700
 - Women targeted as witches due to misogyny, dependency of older single women, women's disproportionate claims to have magical powers, suspicions against midwives
 - Witch hunts end due to spread of scientific ideas, increasing fear of anarchy, decreasing fear of the devil, increasing belief in human responsibility

REPUBLICAN STATES 1550-1700

- In republican states, legislatures hold some power over taxation and law; but states not necessarily democratic, as legislatures may represent only nobles and wealthy
- England
 - Despite kings' attempts at Catholicism and absolutism, England remains Protestant and maintains strong parliamentary monarchy led by landed gentry
 - Elizabeth I (r. 1558-1603) establishes tolerant religious settlement, increases royal bureaucracy and efficiency
 - 1588: English fleet defeats the Spanish Armada
 - James I (r. 1603-1625) unites rule of Scotland and England, believes in divine right of kings, alienating Puritans
 - Charles I (r. 1625-1649) and Parliament (led by Puritan John Pym) quarrel over Charles I's taxation without Parliament's consent, his refusal to call Parliament, and centralized structure of church governance
 - 1642: English Civil War between royalists (Cavaliers) and Parliament (Roundheads) begins
 - 1649: Victory of Parliament's New Model Army, commanded by Oliver Cromwell, leads to Charles I's execution
 - 1653-1658: Lord Protector Cromwell rules English Commonwealth, enforces Puritan ideals, subdues Ireland and Scotland, conquers Jamaica
 - Charles II (r. 1660-1685) given throne in Restoration, as English desire end to Puritan republic
 - James II (r. 1685-1688) renews fear of Catholic, absolutist monarch
 - 1688: Peaceful Glorious Revolution brings moderate monarchs William and Mary to England, assuring Protestant rule and English Bill of Rights
 - 1707: Union of Scotland with England and Wales creates United Kingdom
 - 18th century: Hanoverian monarchs rule with Parliament, dominated by wealthy property owners, but sometimes responsive to public pressure
 - British sense of national identity emerges: Protestant, wealthy, loyal to monarchy, sense of rivalry with France
 - Political parties emerge: Whigs and Tories vie for House of Commons (lower house of Parliament)
- Netherlands
 - Newly independent northern United Provinces (or Dutch Republic) thrives in 1600s; expands middle class through trade and industry, via growing global economy
 - Draining and filling in of land from sea creates fertile soil for increased agricultural production
 - Resists authoritarian government; maintains federalist republic led by wealthy families
 - Slight majority of Dutch are Calvinist, but country is known for religious toleration

- Polish-Lithuanian Commonwealth
 - Created by Lublin Union (1569), which unites northeastern Europe under one king; golden age of Poland
 - Nobles of the Sejm (parliament) have customary veto power, which weakens central authority
 - Religious toleration as Catholics, Orthodox, Lutherans, Calvinists, Anabaptists, and Jews live together
 - 1648: Ukrainian peasants revolt against cultural, religious, and economic domination of Polish-Lithuanian nobles; turmoil lasts over a decade

THE GLOBAL ECONOMY (1600-1800)

- Global trade brings spices, tea, sugar, cotton from Asia and Americas to Europe; England and Netherlands especially benefit, while Italian states and Spain decline
- Dutch and English shipbuilding, large middle class, urban population contribute to economy based on trade
- Commercial innovations:
 - Banks, credit, bills of exchange, and joint-stock companies spark trade
 - Dutch East Indies Company trades spices, tulips from Indonesian colonies; though independent of the government, it represents the government's interests
 - British East India Company establishes trade in India, operates its own administration and military
- Slaves from central west Africa provide labor in American economies from North America to Brazil
 - Millions of Africans forced to migrate across the ocean, bringing languages, culture to American colonies
 - Prosperity of colonial traders, merchants, and manufacturers of consumer goods comes to depend on slavery
- Mercantile system: belief that there is a limited amount of wealth in the world and that each nation must seek a favorable trade balance; expansion only through conquest
- Dutch economy declines in the late 1600s due to series of wars with England and France, lack of strong leadership
- Port cities and capitals expand; medieval trade and ecclesiastical centers decline
- Largest European cities in 1800: London, Paris, Naples, Constantinople, Moscow

ABSOLUTISM (1550-1770)

- Monarchs throughout Europe establish absolute rule based on claims of divine right, personal loyalties; increase control over taxation, growing armies, religion
- Smaller princes and noble aristocracies agree to absolutism to minimize warfare and gain land and local authority
- Absolutist rule limited by custom and law; not arbitrary
- France:
 - Monarchs establish rule by divine right, though parlements retain the rights to register royal decrees and oversee local administration and taxation
 - Louis XIII advisor Cardinal Richelieu increases royal administration
 - Louis XIV, the "Sun King" (r. 1643-1715), lives at Versailles Palace, leads France into several dynastic wars
 - 1648-1653: Nobles revolt against royal authority in conflict called the Fronde
 - 1685: Louis XIV revokes Edict of Nantes
 - Louis XV (r. 1715-1774) ineffective, less popular; monarchy no longer considered sacred
- Holy Roman Empire:
 - Austria-based Hapsburg family rules Holy Roman Empire through negotiation with Germanic princes; also rules non-Germanic Croatia, Hungary, Bohemia
 - Late 17th c. territorial gains from Ottoman Empire add to multiethnic empire

- Prussia:
 - Ambitious Hohenzollern family turns small, disconnected German territories of Brandenburg-Prussia into strong military power with agreement of loyal landowning nobles (Junkers) during the 17th and 18th c.
 - Hohenzollerns challenge Hapsburgs for dominance over Central Europe
- Russia
 - Develops into powerful, Orthodox, multiethnic empire
 - Cruel Ivan IV “the Terrible” (r. 1533-1584) enlarges rule of tsars
 - 1584-1613: Time of Troubles, many contenders claim throne
 - 1613: Michael Romanov selected as tsar, establishing new Romanov ruling dynasty
 - Serfdom increases due to economic crisis, labor shortages; no representative institutions and few towns to resist
 - Peter I “the Great” (r. 1682-1725) expands Russia; struggles against nobles (boyars); controls Orthodox Church; encourages service to state with Table of Ranks; builds new capital, St. Petersburg; introduces Western ideas, dress, and culture
- Sweden
 - Protestant monarchy plays important role in Thirty Years’ War
 - Fights Great Northern War against Russia (1700-1721) under leadership of Charles XII (r. 1697-1718)
- Ottoman Empire
 - Spans North Africa, Middle East, Balkans; ethnically, religiously diverse territories become difficult to rule
 - Governed through millets (recognized religious communities)
 - Land belongs to sultan, so no hereditary nobility forms
 - Sultan heads Islamic theocracy but tolerates other religions
 - 1571: Wealthy, powerful Spanish Philip II (r. 1556-1598) defeats Ottoman Turks at sea battle of Lepanto
 - 1683: King John III Sobieski of Poland prevents Ottoman Empire from capturing Hapsburg capital of Vienna
 - Ottoman Empire suffers long decline due to military defeats, renegotiations of rule with local elites, less vigorous industry and trade compared to Western Europe, isolation from European military and scientific advances

THE ENLIGHTENMENT 1700-1800

- 18th century intellectual and philosophical movement with origins in scientific ideas, Renaissance, print culture
- Philosophers share ideas in woman-led salons
 - 1751: First volume of The Encyclopedia by Denis Diderot and others shares knowledge of science, crafts, and ideas
 - 1781: Immanuel Kant’s Critique of Pure Reason promotes rational inquiry
- Philosophers criticize religious institutions, promote religious toleration, range from Christians to atheists
 - 1694: John Toland (English, 1670-1722) sets forth deist outlook of God as divine watchmaker
 - 1748: David Hume (Scottish, 1711-1776) claims miracles cannot be proven in An Enquiry Concerning Human Understanding
 - 1759: Voltaire (French, 1694-1778) criticizes Catholicism in Candide
 - 1779: Gotthold Lessing (German, 1729-1781) calls for tolerance of non-Christian faiths in Nathan the Wise
- Theorists desire government reform but disagree over best forms of government
 - 1748: Charles de Montesquieu (French, 1689-1755) promotes constitutional limits on monarchs in The Spirit of the Laws
 - 1762: Jean-Jacques Rousseau (Swiss-French, 1712-1778) promotes democracy, personal freedom under the law in The Social Contract

- Philosophers seek universal standards of justice, uniform law, but few promote extending equal rights to women
 - 1763: Voltaire defends persecuted French Protestants
 - 1764: Cesare Beccaria (Italian, 1738-1794) espouses justice, protests against torture in On Crimes and Punishments
 - 1792: Mary Wollstonecraft (English, 1759-1797) argues for women's rights in A Vindication of the Rights of Women
- Enlightenment thinkers view mankind as changeable, not locked into social categories
 - 1690: John Locke (English, 1632-1704) calls the mind a blank slate in An Essay Concerning Human Understanding, believes man can learn and improve
 - 1762: Rousseau suggests in Emile that men can be molded with education, women should be subordinate to men
- Enlightened economists oppose mercantilism
 - 1755: Rousseau blames world's problems on uneven property distribution in Discourse on the Origin of Inequality
 - 1776: Adam Smith (Scottish, 1723-1790) promotes free markets, specialization of labor in The Wealth of Nations
- Enlightenment influences enlightened absolutism and is blamed for causing the French Revolution

ENLIGHTENED ABSOLUTISM

- Absolute rulers adopt some Enlightenment ideas, correspond with Enlightenment philosophers; however, rulers do not fundamentally change absolutist rule
- Rational reforms strengthen state and military power but do not greatly improve lives of subjects
- Russia:
 - Catherine II, "the Great" (r. 1762-1796) establishes schools for nobles, printing presses, clarifies nobility's rights; but also imprisons opponents, maintains censorship and serfdom
 - 1773-1775: Pugachev Rebellion of peasants suppressed
 - Russian westward expansion continues
- Austria:
 - Maria Theresa (r. 1740-1780) works to end mistreatment of peasants
 - 1781: Joseph II (r. 1765-1790); co-reigns with Maria-Theresa (1765-1780), abolishes serfdom, promotes religious tolerations
 - Joseph II imposes more taxes on peasants
- Prussia:
 - Frederick II, "the Great" (r. 1740-1786) supports arts and education, admires Voltaire, reforms justice system, improves agriculture, writes law code
 - Reforms ultimately strengthen and streamline Prussian state
 - Tax burden still falls on peasants and townspeople
- 1772, 1793, and 1795: in three steps, Russia, Austria, and Prussia partition Poland-Lithuania among themselves until it is no longer an independent nation
 - Unlike Russia, Austria, and Prussia, Poland does not develop strong central institutions
 - 1780s-1790s: Polish king Stanislaw promotes military, education, economic, and constitutional reforms
 - Reform undermined by Polish counterrevolutionaries, making partitions by powerful neighbors possible

WAR & COLONIES 1600-1789

- Spanish empire: South America (except Portuguese Brazil), Central America, southern North America, Caribbean islands
- French empire: Québec, Louisiana, Caribbean, Ohio and Mississippi River valleys, Indian territories, Caribbean islands
- Dutch empire: South Africa, Indonesia, territories in South America and India
- British empire: North American east coast, India, Caribbean
- British, French, Spanish, Dutch battle over global economy; navies grow to defend colonial empires, with Britain's particularly strong
- 18th –century nations seek balance of power: if one grows too strong, others unite in war and diplomacy to limit it
 - 1740-1748: War of Austrian Succession: Austria, Russia, Britain fear expansion of Prussia (aided by France), prevent disintegration of Habsburg empire
 - 1756-1763: Seven Years; War: First global war pits Austria and France against Prussia and Britain
 - Fighting occurs in Europe, North America, India
 - War of Nations, not just monarchs
 - Britain ends France's North American empire (In America, war is known as the French and Indian War)
- Wars are expensive and cause domestic instability
- 1783: British recognize independence of United States of America; American Revolution inspires many Europeans to question traditional government
- Armies of conscripts and mercenaries use bayonets, muskets, line formations, cavalry charges, defensive tactics
- Battles usually only limited engagements, as armies are too expensive to risk destroying in entirety
- Dynastic wars led by chivalrous aristocratic officers inflict fewer civilian casualties than 17th-century wars of religion

SOCIAL CLASSES & FAMILIES 1600-1789

- Social classes given by birth, sometimes called estates; define legal rights and privileges
- Nobles: Dominate political life, but increasing wealth of non-nobles causes anxiety
 - Nobles own large estates, are exempt from taxes
 - Large nobility in Poland, Russia, Hungary, and Spain; small nobility in Britain
 - Tension grows between old nobility, newly ennobled families
 - Nobles try to hold onto traditional privileges
- Clergy: Hold legal privileges but are divided between wealthy bishops and impoverished village priests and ministers
- Urban middle classes: Artisans, merchants, manufacturers
 - Some members of middle class acquire sizable fortunes
 - Middle classes resent persisting privileges of nobility
 - Social life of cities thrives in cafés, theaters, private clubs
- Peasants: Make up majority of European population
 - Russia 90% peasants; Prussia, France 75%; Britain very few
 - Peasants owe taxes, work duties; some peasants own land, others work on large estates for wages and food
 - Landowners use legal measures to prevent poor peasants from hunting, chopping down trees, gathering wood on their property
 - Eastern European peasants live in worse conditions, often as serfs, under noble authority
- Urban and rural poor: Struggle to survive despite starvation, disease, social control
 - Many turn to begging, smuggling, prostitution, crime

- Towns imprison beggars, increase punishments for crimes to maintain order
- Bands of thieves threaten travelers, traders on highways
- Unwanted children are increasingly left at foundling homes, where many die quickly
- Jews: Required to live in separate communities called ghettos; have few rights, experience legal discrimination based on their religion, live mostly in poverty
- Gender difference continues to determine social lives of men and women, regardless of class, from time of birth; opportunities, expectations, economic and cultural roles generally more limited for women
- Families, not individuals, are the primary economic unit
 - Family members work together in agriculture, artisanal crafts, small industries to provide for each other
 - Households in western Europe include married couple, children, servants
 - Older children move away, establish their own households, marry late
 - Women leave home to earn money for dowry, with goal of establishing a household with a husband
 - Households in eastern Europe include several generations under one roof; children marry young, stay with parents after marriage

AGRICULTURE, CONSUMPTION, & INDUSTRY 1700-1800

- Population explosion across Europe in 1700s: less devastating warfare, more children, better nourishment, fewer epidemics
- Agricultural revolution in western Europe in 1700s: new crops, enclosure of open fields, commercialization of agriculture increase food production and distribution
- Britain industrializes first (late 1700s) due to free trade, consumer demand, social mobility
- Rising demand for convenient, inexpensive consumer goods (furniture, clothing, housewares) prompts industrial innovation
- Wealthy willing to risk money, or capital, to start an industry
- Government laws protect and promote industry, trade; money from global economy invested in manufacturing in Europe
- New technologies invented in Britain make industrial production faster, separate production into many steps
 - 1765: Spinning jenny allows fast thread production in home
 - 1776: Steam engine first used commercially
 - 1769: Water frame allows small-factory thread production
- Most weaving still done by hand until 19th century
 - Families in rural areas and small villages do textile work at home to earn extra money
 - Merchant entrepreneurs supply raw materials to workers in their homes, then sell textiles
- Villages in contact with cities sell their agricultural products in exchange for manufactured and imported goods
- Women's role in agricultural production and in large-scale mechanized industry declines
 - Women continue to earn money in cottage industries or as domestics, but they have fewer options
 - Women's work increasingly associated with the home, tradition, viewed as supplemental to a husband's income

THE FRENCH REVOLUTION

- Unrest stems from population increase, famine, popular Enlightenment ideas that promote democracy and lower prestige of monarchy, monarchy's financial crisis, and increasing view that the parliaments and the public represent the French nation more than the monarch does
- 1787-1788: Government's attempts at reform fail
- 1789: King Louis XVI (r. 1774-1792) opens meeting of Estates-General to resolve financial problems (Estates-General is a meeting of three estates-clergy, nobles, and all others)
 - 1789: Priest Emmanuel-Joseph Sieyès says the Third Estate (non-clergy, non-nobles) is the true French nation and should have political power
 - Estates-General goes further than expected, renames itself National Assembly, turns absolute monarchy into constitutional monarchy (king answerable to an elected legislature), abolishes noble privilege
 - Parisians storm Bastille (old prison seen as symbol of injustice)
 - Women of Paris force king to come to Paris from Versailles
- 1791: Louis XVI tries to flee France, denounces Revolution
- 1792: France becomes a republic, promoting "liberty, equality, and fraternity," but women lack right to vote or participate
 - Government creates new calendar, metric system
 - Republic takes control of Catholic Church; move is divisive
 - Sans-culottes ("those wearing long pants") and tricolor (red, white, blue) flag symbolize republican support
- 1792: France wars against antirevolution European powers
 - War continues sporadically for 23 years, spreading nationalism, democracy, and suffering across the continent
- 1793-1794: Reign of Terror: Government in hands of a few radicals (Jacobins) led by Maximilien Robespierre
 - Aristocrats and some peasants start counterrevolution
 - Federalists want decentralized revolution; crushed by Jacobins
 - Over 20,000 people guillotined, including King Louis XVI and wife, Marie-Antoinette
- 1794: Robespierre's regime falls; replaced by unstable government called the Directory (lasts until 1799)

THE NAPOLEONIC ERA

- General Napoleon Bonaparte takes control of French government in 1799, declares himself emperor in 1804
- Napoleon brings domestic order to France
 - 1801: makes peace with Pope in the Concordat
 - 1804: Napoleonic Code reforms, codifies French law; promotes traditional ideas about family and women
 - Napoleon uses plebiscite (yes or no vote) to gain popular approval of himself and his policies
 - Strengthens centralized administration, social hierarchy based on service to the state rather than noble birth
 - Censorship, arrest for those who disagree

- Europe in almost constant war during Napoleon's reign
 - Napoleon a genius at military organization, strategy
 - 1805: British confirm naval superiority at Battle of Trafalgar
 - 1805: France defeats Austria and Russia at Austerlitz
 - 1806: Napoleon blockades British trade with rest of Europe
 - 1806: Holy Roman Empire dissolves
 - 1808: Spanish resist French invasion
 - 1812: French invade Russia
 - 1815: Coalition of Austrian, British, Prussian, and Russian forces defeat Napoleon at Waterloo
- French army spreads ideas about democracy, stirs nationalism throughout Europe
- 1814-1815: Congress of Vienna establishes a conservative order in Europe
 - Austrian Chancellor Klemens von Metternich dominates meeting of major European powers
 - Pre-Napoleon national boundaries restored
 - Legitimate Bourbon monarchy restored to France
 - England, Austria, Prussia, Russia, France form the Concert of Europe
 - Agreement to maintain a balance of power under which no one nation can become too strong
 - Agreement to squash revolutions, maintain order

NEOCLASSICISM & ROMANTICISM

- Cultural trends of neoclassicism and romanticism emerge during French Revolution and Napoleonic era
- Neoclassicism: admiration for ancient Greek and Roman culture, architecture
 - Painting: Geometric lines, large spaces, often portraying a moral theme
 - 1789: Jacques-Louis David's Lictors Bringing to Brutus the Bodies of His Sons illustrates republican virtue
 - Music (c. 1750-1820): Court patronage, first public concerts; precise melodies, symmetrical, orderly but complex
 - 1786: Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart (Austrian, 1756-1791) composes The Marriage of Figaro
- Romanticism: belief that the artist creates art from within; not necessarily concerned with pursuing truth; characterized by admiration of Gothic architecture, questioning of value of reason, belief that world is mysterious
 - Painting: depicts power of nature, storms, internal turmoil
 - 1818-1819: Théodore Géricault (French, 1791-1824) portrays human tragedy in The Raft of Medusa
 - John Constable (English, 1776-1837) paints clouds, landscapes, rural scenes, as in The Haywain
 - Literature: emphasis on imagination, interior character development, rebellion against Enlightenment thought
 - 1798: Samuel Taylor Coleridge (English, 1772-1834) and William Wordsworth (English, 1770-1850) explore the development of the poet in Lyrical Ballads

 - Lord Byron (English, 1788-1824) writes rebellious and revolutionary poetry
 - 1831: Stendhal (French, 1783-1842) depicts antihero's journey through love, ambition in The Red and the Black
 - Music: belief that music should evoke an emotional response
 - Ludwig van Beethoven (German, 1770-1827) bridges classicism and romanticism
 - 1738: English clergyman John Wesley founds Methodism, religious faith to come from within oneself, not from books, priests or tradition

- 1802: François-René de Chateaubriand (French, 1768-1848) encourages post-revolutionary return to Catholicism in Genius of Christianity

19TH-CENTURY POLITICAL IDEAS

- Conservatism: belief that stability should be maintained through alliance of hereditary monarchy, landed aristocracy, established church
 - 1790: Edmund Burke (English, 1729-1797) cautions against overthrowing national traditions in Reflections on the Revolution in France
 - Joseph de Maistre (French, 1753-1821) believes social order stems from Church; blames Voltaire for French Revolution
- Nationalism: belief that the political boundaries of countries should coincide with the ethnicity of their inhabitants (for instance, a single Italian state for all Italian people) so each nation has its own ethnic identity
 - Nationalist ideal encourages some ethnic groups to create their own nations through revolution, unification
 - Johann Herder (German, 1744-1803) encourages study of folk culture; believes each nation has its own spirit
 - G.W.F. Hegel (German, 1770-1831) promotes idea of strong state leading its people; believes ideas evolve through conflict with each other
 - Nationalism often becomes aggressive, militaristic
- Liberalism: belief in free press, expansion of electoral franchise, legal equality, religious toleration, unregulated economy
 - Not necessarily democratic; liberals fear revolution by masses
 - Associated with the idle class
 - 1859: John Stuart Mill (English, 1806-1873) promotes freedom of conscience in On Liberty
- Classical economics: promotion of free enterprise and capitalism regulated by the market, not the government (laissez-faire); inspired by Enlightenment economist Adam Smith
 - Jeremy Bentham (English, 1748-1832) promotes utilitarianism, belief that law and society should be organized to bring the most happiness to the greatest number of people
 - 1798: Thomas Malthus (English, 1766-1834) predicts that population growth will outstrip agricultural production
 - 1817: David Ricardo (English, 1772-1823) believes “iron law of wages” means wages will always stay low
- Socialism: desire for equal distribution of money, property
 - Utopian socialist Henri de Saint-Simon (French, 1760-1825), Robert Owen (English, 1771-1858), Charles Fourier (French, 1772-1837) and Etienne Cabet (French, 1788-1856) advocate ideal communities based on equality, freedom
- Marxism: Revolutionary branch of socialism; claims overthrow of capitalism inevitable; urges workers in all countries to unite
 - 1848: German philosophers Karl Marx and Friedrich Engels publish The Communist Manifesto
- Anarchism: belief that a society works best without government
 - 1840: Pierre-Joseph Proudhon (French, 1809-1865) declares that all property is theft
 - Russian activists Mikhail Bakunin (1814-1876) and Peter Kropotkin (1842-1921) promote anarchism
 - 1880s-1890s: Some anarchists use violent terrorism to assassinate government leaders

THE 19TH CENTURY MIDDLE CLASS

- Increasing prominence of merchants, bankers, lawyers, doctors, clerks, shopkeepers, etc. known collectively as the middle class or bourgeoisie
- Social mobility (moving up and down from one class to another) both an ambition and source of anxiety
- Size and influence of bourgeoisie varies by country: larger and more powerful in western Europe than in eastern Europe and the Balkins; only 2% of population in Russia
- Earn money through work but not manual labor
- Not noble, but would like to have privileges and political power; often support liberalism
- Desire for comfort, consumer goods to be enjoyed in privacy
- Emphasis on family: education, religion, advantageous marriages for children
- Belief in appropriate roles, or spheres for men and women
 - Men work, earn money, deal with the outside world, provide food and shelter for family; women raise children, maintain the home, provide moral guidance for family
 - Poorer women, however, must work and earn wages to survive; often work as domestics for the middle class
- Long-reigning Queen Victoria (r. 1837-1901) embodies British middle-class values

WAR & REVOLUTION 1815-1890

- 1815-1848: Several revolutions challenge Concert of Europe

- German philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche (1844-1900) praises irrationality, criticizes morality and scientists, awaits heroic Overman
- Austrian theorist Sigmund Freud (1856-1939) probes dreams, childhood, unconscious through psychoanalysis
- Many male scientists believe that new ideas about evolution and psychology confirm that women are inferior, irrational, domestic
- Women often still excluded from scientific discussion
- 1890s-1900s: Scientists Pierre Curie (French) and Marie Curie (Polish-French) discover radioactivity and x-rays
- 1900s: German physicist Max Planck describes quantum theory
- 1905: German physicist Albert Einstein publishes special theory of relativity

THE GREAT WAR 1914-1918

Assassination of Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand by Serbian nationalists in 1914 triggers war between Serbia and Austria-Hungary; escalates to the Great War (World War I)

- War spreads rapidly due to aggressive nationalism, complicated alliance system, German desire to avoid strategic encirclement:
 - Austria-Hungary, Germany, Ottoman empire against
 - Russia (Serbian supporter), France, Britain
- Western Front: French and British soldiers face Germans in unmoving line across northern France
 - 1914: Germany invades France through Belgium, following Schlieffen Plan; German attempt at quick victory fails
 - Fighting settles into muddy, demoralizing trench warfare
 - 1916: Battles at Verdun and the Somme but no decisive victories
- Eastern front: Germans and Austro-Hungarians fight Russians in moving war, devastating countryside
- Balkans: British invasion of Ottoman Empire repelled at Gallipoli
- War technology: Gas, machine guns, barbed wire, artillery, submarines, airplanes; both sides use propaganda, industry, workers (including women) to bolster war effort, mobilize home front
- 1917: Russia withdraws from war after losing ground and undergoing Russian Revolution; United States joins side of France and Britain, angered by Germany's unrestricted submarine warfare
- 1918: Germany admits defeat due to domestic upheaval, dwindling supplies; war leaves Europe economically ruined, disillusioned
- Treaty of Versailles fails to resolve nationalist and ethnic problems in much of Europe, causes widespread discontentment; War Guilt Clause forces Germany to accept blame and payment for war

RUSSIAN REVOLUTION & USSR

- 1904-1905: Japan defeats Russia in Russo-Japanese War
 - First modern victory of Asian country over European power
